

Kanyoo Bridge

By Marlowe Frank

Geese call echoing over the water

Roots submerged

Tiny spider in black diamond fence

Green and blue and reflections

A single leaf falls to rest

On top of green spotted surface

If only I could be so light

That the water would also hold me

I would stay here forever

Between water and sky

Still in a transitory space

The clouds always moving